Biography

Reverend Donald (“Don”) Laverne Benedict was a leading advocate and social justice activist within the United Church of Christ, and a transformative leader in urban ministries in New York and Chicago over a long and prolific career.

Reverend Benedict was born on September 12, 1917 in Detroit, Michigan. Much of Reverend Benedict’s writing on his childhood hinges on quotidian events like sleigh riding with his father over Ohio winters, losing fights at sleepaway camp, and nearly “committing murder” during his first experience driving a car. These moments were punctuated by telling firsthand observations of racial and class relations in the predominately working and lower middle-class Midwestern contexts of his youth, cities like Detroit, Tecumseh, Canton, and Youngstown. These experiences informed Benedict’s early interest in what he would like refer to as a lifelong “pilgrimage in action and reflection” in his spiritual and community activities.

Reverend Benedict would stay in Michigan for his undergraduate work, earning his Bachelor’s degree in Urban Sociology from Albion College in 1939 before immediately going on to pursue graduate studies at Union Theological Seminary in New York. His graduate education was interrupted when Benedict was arrested among a group of conscientious objectors to the draft in 1940, including classmates David Dellinger and George Houser. Benedict was sentenced to two terms at Danbury Correctional Facility beginning in 1940. As Benedict recounts in his narrative “Jail to Army”: “I finally decided after two weeks in solitary that it made a difference who won the war. I called the Warden and told him I was ready to register for the draft”.

Benedict's enlistment was followed by delayed court proceedings, and while on parole he briefly re-entered the ministerial community as an interim pastor at a Detroit Methodist Church (1941-1942) even enrolled in courses at Chicago Theological Seminary while working as an orderly at a nearby hospital (1944). On the advice of a mentor, Benedict soon decided to enlist in the Air Force, serving in Guam and Iwo Gima before the end of the war in 1945. While serving in the Pacific, Benedict was eventually ranked First Sergeant in the 29th division, described himself as committing himself to the Veterans Affairs Committee and softball team, respectively, and was honorably discharged in 1946. Following Benedict's military service, he was readmitted to Union, graduating with a Doctorate of Ministry in 1948 with a focus in Ethics and Society.

The immediate postwar years marked the formal beginning of Reverend Benedict's work in urban ministry. In 1947, Benedict, along with his wife Ann and fellow Union alumni and community members – notably Archie Hargraves and Bill Webber – founded the East Harlem Protestant Parish, a singular interdenominational ministry that organized to foster community life and ecumenical ministry in socioeconomically marginalized communities in the East Harlem neighborhood of New York City. In 1948, Reverend Benedict was ordained in the United Church of Christ. Reverend Benedict's connections to his fellow EHPP founders guided much of his beyond New York, including founding the West Side Organization with Archie Hargraves in 1952, followed by Benedict's bid for a seat on the New York City Council in 1953.

The Benedicts eventually set their sights on ministerial work outside New York, first in northeastern Ohio in the mid-1950s when they were actively involved in forming the Inner City Protestant Parish in Cleveland. By 1960, the couple had also worked to reestablish the First Congregational Church in Chicago, which was renamed Saint Paul's UCC and would be a congregation that would stay very close to the Benedicts throughout their lives. The couple would settle into Chicago both personally and professionally, as this city would become the context for the Benedicts' lifelong activism and ministry.

Having observed the Detroit Race Riots in his twenties, and firsthand the extremes of the Second World War and solitary confinement, Reverend Benedict was positioned early on to fold social justice into his spiritual life. On settling in Chicago in the early 60s, Benedict undertook a number of initiatives and co-founded several significant organizations, often collaborating with Ann and fellow ministers with similar politics. Even after his formal retirement in 1982, Reverend Benedict was involved with a remarkable number of community organizations. Most, if not all, of these initiatives were created with the intention to cooperate with historically and systematically marginalized communities using education and empowering programs and practices guided by social justice. Some of Reverend Benedict's positions in these organizations include:

Executive Director, the Community Renewal Society, 1960-1982

National Director of the Urban Emphasis Program of the United Church of Christ, 1964-1965

President, Church Federation of Greater Chicago

Co-Founder, Urban Training Center for Christian Mission

Founder, Urban Academy in Chicago

Co-Founder, The Chicago Reporter

Agenda Committee, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Movement in Chicago

In retirement [abridged]:

Volunteer Pastor, Peoples Church, 1982-1984

Chairman, Ethics Task Force under Chicago Mayor Harold Washington, 1984-1986

Executive Director, Clergy and Laity Concerned Anti-Racism Institute, 1986-1989

Co-Founder, Protestants for the Common Good (1995)

Co-Founder, Justice Coalition of Greater Chicago (1998)

Particular areas of interest to Reverend Benedict were systemic violence perpetrated on communities of color, specifically black men and women, justice for victims of police brutality, reentry and rehabilitation activism, urban housing, education reform, post-9/11 legislation, job sharing and advocacy for the unemployed, and systematic roots of the prison industrial complex. All these commitments surface in the papers compiled in this collection through administrative records, personal correspondence, recollections and autobiographical writings, ephemera and research files.

In addition to his many community ties, Reverend Benedict published a number of editorials and articles in periodicals such as Christian Century and Commerce and Renewal, gave interviews and oral histories, and published the autobiography, Born Again Radical, with Pilgrim Press in 1982.

Reverend Benedict received two honorary degrees: a Doctorate of Divinity honoris causa from Albion College in 1966, and a L.H.D. honoris causa from Elmhurst College in 1969. Benedict was also honored with the Distinguished Alumnus Award from Union Theological Seminary in 1996. Following a rich and progressive career in his communities and his parishes, Reverend Benedict died in Rutland, Vermont on September 4, 2008 at ninety years old.

Collection Scope and Content Note

The Don Benedict Papers consist mainly of textual materials including reports and administrative materials (most annotated) from organizations that Reverend Benedict either helped found or was a driving member of. Notably, many of the materials in this collection are autobiographical in nature, including oral history transcripts, memoir notes and working drafts and manuscripts of Benedict's memoirs. Also included here is ample correspondence, research and casework materials that will be of value to researchers interested in examining Benedict's ethics and perspective in his politics and activism, and how these convictions informed his ministry. The collection is divided into series that demonstrate the interwoven nature of Benedict's community social justice work to his ministry with the United Church of Christ.

The collection is organized in 4 series:

- Series 1: Ministry and Community Social Justice, 1960-2006 (7 boxes, 3.5 lin. ft.)
This series consists entirely of textual materials, most arranged by organizations with which Reverend Benedict was involved.

- Series 2: Casework and Research, 1965-2006 (5 boxes, 2.25 lin. ft.)
Materials are related to specific areas of interest organized by subject, as well as restricted materials pertaining to people who were incarcerated and whose cases Reverend Benedict, the JCGC and PCG were actively involved with.
- Series 3: Writings, 1961-2006 (2 boxes, 1 lin. ft.)
Series 3: Writings consist both of personal, unpublished and drafts of Benedict's writings, including collated and paginated drafts and notes toward Born Again Radical.
- Series 4: Personal, 1939-2006 (1 box, 0.25 lin. ft.)
These materials consist of photographs, correspondence, ordination materials, versions of Reverend Benedict's curriculum vitae (CV), Bachelors diploma from Albion College, and commemorative certificates.

Processing

Metal clips and staples were removed from materials and folded items were flattened. Materials were placed in new acid-free folders and boxes. Acidic items were separated from one another by interleaving with acid-free paper as needed. Any items in an advanced state of deterioration were placed in Mylar envelopes.
