History

Moral Re-Armament (MRA) was coined on May 29, 1938 at a meeting for Dr. Frank Buchman's Oxford Group in England. At the time the world was on the brink of war, and while leaders claimed they sought peace, they prepared for war. The Oxford Group did not think that a military re-armament would avoid catastrophe, but a moral one would save the world from calamity. At the First World Assembly for Moral Re-Armament later that year, Dr. Buchman said:

"Humanity is at the cross roads. We must reach a final decision for ourselves and for our nations. Do we choose the road of selfishness that leads to uncontrollable violence and darkness? Or will it be the road of the Cross to a sound world, where the ancient virtues of justice, understanding and peace rule under God over a sane humanity?" (The Oxford Group, p. 18-19)

The movement gained followers from throughout Europe and America, including then Senator Harry S. Truman, who contributed speeches and writings to the group. After World War II, MRA sought to provide moral guidance in light of the Cold War. Communism and the moral evils associated with the movement were regularly targeted in MRA publications. This collection contains several examples of these publications.

Dr. Buchman passed away in 1961, which is around the time this collection ends. The work of MRA ceased in 2001, and was succeeded by another international group known as "Initiatives of Change," which still functions to this day.

Collection Scope and Content Note

The collection is divided by material throughout three boxes. All material was organized chronologically when possible.

Throughout the 1930s-1950s, OG/MRA produced several different types of publications, and examples of many of them can be found grouped together in folders bearing the name of the publication (e.g. "The Minute Man" or "MRA Pictorial"). Unfortunately some of these periodical collections do not have every edition. The collection also holds a large collection of press releases and statements made by MRA on the events happening in the world during the late 1950s. Most of these have dates, but some are unknown.

A large part of the collection is devoted to stand alone books and pamphlets produced by MRA. They cover nearly 30 years of ideas and events, but are all tied to the founding mission of MRA. The collection provides a clear look at the work of the Oxford Group and MRA during the middle of the 20th century.

Processing

Folded items were flattened. Materials were placed in new acid-free folders and boxes. Overall the collection is in good shape, so no extreme archival measures were taken.

Further Sources

Moral Re-Armament was a movement started by and within the Oxford Group. The Burke Library has multiple books and online articles devoted to the history and philosophy of the Oxford Group that are available for lending and research.
