Biography

Matthew Tyson (M.T.) Yates was born in Wake County, North Carolina in 1819. He was baptized in 1836, and graduated from Wake Forest College in 1846. In September of that year he married Eliza E. Moring, and in October was ordained into the Southern Baptist Convention in Raleigh, NC. In April of the following year he and his wife left for China, and reached Shanghai in September of 1847. Yates quickly acquired a singular skill in Chinese, and for the rest of his life was engaged in preaching and distributing Christian literature in Shanghai and the surrounding region.

In 1872 he was awarded an honorary D.D. by Wake Forest College. Near the end of his life Yates suffered from illness, and died on March 17, 1888 after suffering a series of strokes.

Collection Scope and Content Note

The collection consists of a single essay by Yates on Chinese ancestor worship published in Shanghai in 1878. Understanding ancestor worship and other aspects of Chinese religion was important for missionaries who needed to communicate their beliefs in relation to traditional practices. Yates' essay was presented at the first General Conference of Protestant Missionaries in China, which was held in Shanghai from May 10 to 24, 1877. The event attracted nearly 150 attendees, representing nearly all of the mission stations and organizations then in China. Yates also chaired the editorial committee that produced a volume of the conference proceedings.
