Administrative Information

- Provenance: Emilie Grace Briggs donated her papers to the library of Union Theological Seminary in approximately 1941. The collection received later additions from papers donated by the Briggs family, UTS administration and faculty.
- Access: Archival papers are available to registered readers for consultation by appointment only. Please contact archives staff by email to burkearchives@library.columbia.edu, or by postal mail to The Burke Library address on page 1, as far in advance as possible. Burke Library staff is available for inquiries or to request a consultation on archival or special collections research.
- Access Restrictions: The collection is unrestricted to readers. Certain materials, however, are in a fragile condition, and this may necessitate restriction in handling and copying. E.G. Brigg's manuscript doctoral Thesis and her University of Virginia Biographical article on Charles Briggs are fragile. Acid-free copies of the items are available for consultation; please use copies when able. Bibliography notebooks in Series 3 and oversized items in Series 4 are very fragile; please use care when handling. Please note that boxes held in Offsite storage will require 48 hours' notice in response to a weekday request for retrieval.
- Preferred Citation: Item description, UTS1: Emilie Grace Briggs Papers, series #, box #, and folder #, The Burke Library at Union Theological Seminary, Columbia University in the City of New York.

Biography

Emilie Grace Briggs, daughter of Charles Augustus Briggs and Julia Valentine Briggs, was born in Berlin in 1867. Her father was a Presbyterian (later Episcopal) clergyman and noted Biblical scholar who served on the faculty at Union Theological Seminary (UTS) from 1876 to 1913.

The first woman to receive a Bachelor of Divinity degree from UTS, Emilie graduated first in her class in 1897. She enrolled in the doctoral program and worked toward completion on a dissertation entitled The Deaconess in the Ancient and Medieval Church which was accepted by the graduate faculty of UTS towards the doctoral degree. She was unable to receive the Ph.D. however as publication was a doctoral requirement at that time. Despite support from faculty members and repeated attempts over a number of years, her dissertation was never published.

From 1896 to 1915 she taught Greek and New Testament at the New York Training School for Deaconesses located at St. John the Divine Cathedral, wrote her dissertation, and assisted her father on the Hebrew Lexicon and a commentary on Psalms for the International Critical Commentary (ICC) series. She acted as Charles Briggs' amanuensis for much of her adult life before 1913. She published three articles: Selah (1899), Galatians (1900) and The Restoration of the Order of Deaconesses (1913). Additionally, a life sketch of her father for the University of Virginia Alumni Bulletin was published in 1899.

After her father's death in 1913, Emilie worked to prepare his uncompleted projects for publication. Theological Symbolics was published in 1914 and the two-volume History of the Study of Theology in 1916. A Theological Encyclopedia and a commentary on Thessalonians for the ICC series were completed but never published. She continued to work on the subject of deaconesses, writing two unpublished articles and revising her dissertation (in 1922).

Much of her time and energy was directed towards the joint father-daughter venture of a Commentary on Lamentations. Charles Briggs began the project, and Emilie completed it, contributing additional research, revisions and considerable additions. This, together with a biography of her father planned as late as 1941 but never written, seems to have been what she considered her life's work.

The last years of her life continued to reflect both commitment to academic scholarship and devotion to her father. Emilie died in 1944, at the age of seventy-seven.

Collection Scope and Content Note

The papers of Emilie Grace Briggs include correspondence, the manuscript of her dissertation and copies of other writing, research notebooks, items from her personal library including an extensive collection of 'bibliography notebooks' that catalog authors and publications across a range of religious subject areas, and professional and personal memorabilia. Little of the content illuminates her personality or non-academic life; the collection of clippings and other memorabilia is scanty, and almost as much of it pertains to her father as to her own activities.

The bulk of the collection is comprised of scholarly research and writing, and evidences EGB's molding of her interests to those of her father. While her autonomous publications and research do appear in the collection, material regarding the commentary on Lamentations, although never published, is prominently featured.

The collection is divided into four series, arranged chronologically or thematically and then chronologically:

- Series 1: Correspondence, 1893-1941 (1 box, 0.50 lin. ft.)
This series contains two major categories: letters from brother, Alanson Briggs, and letters to and from publishers with regard to her own and her father's projects. The letters from her brother (living in California) date from 1928 to 1939. Many have been heavily edited and deal almost exclusively with their shared interest in the Song of Songs. Emilie was apparently concerned with preserving his research, the results of which were never published. Other correspondence in the series includes notes on special and regular domestic events, on her writing, research and publications, and personal and professional condolences regarding her father's illness and death in 1913.
- Series 2: Primary Research and Writing, 1904-1936 (6 boxes, 3.00 lin. ft.)
Within this series are Emilie's finished dissertation as well as drafts and exhaustive research notes and notebooks. Additionally, due to the fragile state of the original, there are two copies of the dissertation for consultation, one in bound volumes and the other a collection of loose pages.

Research in preparation for writing The Deaconess in the Ancient and Medieval Church occasioned other writing and publication, most notably a 1913 article in The Biblical World. The series then moves to her second principal academic endeavor, the commentary on Lamentations, and includes her father's initial research and writing, and her own revisions, extensions and additions.

- Series 3: Other Research, Writing and Personal Effects, 1891-1932 (8 boxes, 3.75 lin. ft.)

Within this series are a mixture of Emilie's and Charles' research and personal effects. Emilie's Selah article, biblical and devotional texts from her personal library, and her work on the Canticles/Song of Songs (intersecting with Alanson's Briggs study) are featured.

The heart of the series is the thirty-four bibliography notebooks on religious and theological subjects such as church history, diaconal ministry, doctrine, ethics and practical theology. All notebooks from boxes 3 through 7 are fragile due to loose clippings; extra care must be taken when handling.

- Series 4: Oversize Materials, 1888; 1897 (1 OS box, 1.50 lin. ft.)

This series includes three oversized certificates of study awarded to EGB which are fragile and rolled. Each item is individually listed.

Processing

Metal clips and staples were removed from materials and folded items were flattened. Materials were placed in new acid-free folders and boxes. Acidic items were separated from one another by interleaving with acid-free paper as needed. The fragile draft of Emilie Brigg's doctoral dissertation was copied onto acid free paper, which is to be consulted in place of the original.

In 2015, the collection was reviewed and updated as part of the Henry Luce Foundation grant. The materials were placed in new acid-free, legal size boxes and folders and the finding aid was updated. Folder numberings were condensed, although the separations have stayed the same.

Please note that CAB is used as alternative to Charles Augustus Briggs for brevity throughout the Contents list.
