Biography

Norman (“Norm”) and Margaret (“Peg”) Ruth Eddy were community organizers whose efforts were centralized in the East Harlem neighborhood in New York City. They were both graduates of Union Theological Seminary, where they met (having studied during different times) in the fall of 1948 and marrying shortly before their graduation in 1951. Margaret Ruth was born in Cincinnati, Ohio on October 31, 1926. She attended Smith College in Massachusetts from 1944-1948, entering Union Theological Seminary almost immediately after as part of her pursuit of the ordination process in the Congregationalist Cincinnati Conference.

Norman (“Norm”) Eddy was born to Stanley and Alice (Hart) Eddy on February 9, 1920. His father, Stanley Eddy, co-owned a stock brokerage firm with his brother, Welles, and raised the family in New Britain, Connecticut. His upbringing in New Britain (punctuated by summers on Martha’s Vineyard) comprised what he would later refer to in his memoirs as being formative to his identity as a “Connecticut mystic”, inured early in life to devote his career to serving socioeconomically disadvantaged communities, as well as espousing a forward-looking yet “pessimistic” relationship to the vagaries of foreign and domestic policy. Norm was attracted to writing and publication early in life, and together with his cousin Pete Hart wrote and circulated the Current Events of the Week, a weekly newsletter that earned the pair enough money to travel to Bermuda together when Norm was only twelve years old.

UTS1: Norman and Margaret Eddy Papers, 1930-2013

Norm, along with his brother Howard, were educated at the Shuttle Meadow (now Moreland Hill) School (a school cofounded by Alice Eddy and that met in a space adjoining the Eddy's New Britain home), and later the Pomfret School. Norman attended Yale University from 1938 until 1942, spending 1939 studying abroad at the Stowe School in Buckingham, England, where Norm first learned about Nazi Germany's involvement in World War II. According to a commemorative pamphlet found in the accession file to the Eddy Papers, Norman "was a pacifist and during the summer of 1940 went to live in Cuba for two months with the American Friends Service Committee and lived with fifty Jewish refugees, teaching them English and preparing them to apply for visas to the U.S. There he experienced the Quaker worship and the Friday night Jewish services"¹. Following his graduation from Yale University, Norman served in the volunteer ambulance corps, the American Field Service, and was recruited in the British 8th Army, where he served Egypt, Libya, Italy, and Austria. A spiritual vision in the Syrian desert (Damascus) during his military service led him to eventually enroll at Union and seek ordination as a Congregationalist minister, following a life "led by the Holy Spirit and [which sought] to uncover Spirit within each and every person". As Norm wrote in his extensive memoirs, "the Spirit has filled me with yearning to learn more about the truth causing war in general and in specific wars, past and present. The desire for peace is strongly alive in me."

At Union, Norman met Margaret ("Peg") Lindsay Ruth, a burgeoning activist and spiritual leader whose rigor in many ways matched Norman's. They married in 1950, and were ordained within the month after their graduation from Union. The Eddys moved to 100th Street (between 1st and 2nd Avenue, a block long referred to as the city's "worst block") in Manhattan's East Harlem neighborhood, where they became co-pastors of a small storefront church. The couple served as advisory and assisting clergy at the 100th Street Church through its transformation into the Church of the Resurrection. The Eddys lived the entirety of their lives in East Harlem, with their three children Martha, Rebecca, and Tim, all born and raised in East Harlem, and the family committed to the Metro North community organizing movement and participated in efforts on behalf of the marginally housed, the formation of a credit union, housing renewal efforts, and programs to advance and reform their local public schools, and pressure campaigns to preserve funding for their local public hospital. The Eddys were also involved in teaching courses at New York Theological Seminary (Peg's methodology at NYTS was notably hinged on Biblical storytelling, which is reflected in materials gathered in this collection), where a program center has been named after the couple. In addition to their robust efforts beyond Union, Norm and Peg were formative in the early years of the East Harlem Protestant Parish. The East Harlem Protestant Parish ("EHPP", whose records are also held at Burke) was founded in 1948, conceived initially as an interdenominational community parish comprising four storefront churches, whose broad mission was to support a multi-faith group ministry that was geographically, culturally and programatically accessible to the residents of ill-served communities in East Harlem. The EHPP was the brainchild of a number of Union graduates in addition to the Eddys, including Donald Laverne Benedict, George Williams "Bill" Webber, and J. Archie Hargraves.

Peg predeceased Norm in 1990, while Norman passed away on June 21, 2013, in New York City.

The papers organized here reflect the rigor and comprehensiveness with which Norm and Peg led their careers and their spiritual missions, and the myriad communities and causes their respective callings supported and guided.

Collection Scope and Content Note

The Norm and Peg Eddy Papers is a large aggregate of materials that have maintained the original order imposed by their record creators, where possible, as well as arrangement schema imposed by archival staff where no original order could be identified. The papers consist of personal papers kept by Norman (also called Norm) and Margaret (nicknamed “Peg”) Eddy, as well as records reflecting the pair’s work in New York’s East Harlem neighborhood. The papers consist chiefly of textual materials, as well as scrapbooks, photo albums, loose photographs, artworks, medals, awards and other memorabilia.

The collection is organized in seven series, all of which are subdivided into subseries as follows:

- Series 1: Subject Files, 1930-2011 (69 boxes, 34.5 lin. ft.)

This series follows the original order that was established by Norman. The majority of the subject files follow the original headings given by Norman or Margaret, with further arrangement imposed where duplicates and overlapping materials were identified. Note that for some materials, files are ordered from the rear of the box going forward.

They are subdivided into the following subseries:

Subseries 1A: Subject Files -- Individuals [alphabetical]

Files in this subseries are ordered from the rear of the box going forward.

Subseries 1B: East Harlem Protestant Parish (EHPP) Archives – Alphabetical

*Note: This “archival” subseries is maintained in the order that Norman imposed in his recordkeeping practices; for the official records kept by the East Harlem Protestant Parish, please consult the East Harlem Protestant Parish collection, also available at Burke Library.

Subseries 1C: Healing Community/Church of the Resurrection [alphabetical]

Subseries 1D: Political Essays and Campaigns [alphabetical]

Subseries 1E: Travel [by region]

Subseries 1F: Programs and Organizations [alphabetical]

Subseries 1G: Spirit Visions/Friends [alphabetical, first by subject then by surname]

Subseries 1H: Margaret (Peg) Eddy Subject Files [suborganized with subheadings “Bible Study”, “East Harlem School of Faith”, “Women in Worship”, “Personal”]

Subseries 1I: Research [by subject, including a subheading “Souvenirs”, which was a heading Norman maintained for correspondence, cards, and ephemera relating to specific events/travels]. This subseries includes a box of restricted material, mostly case files regarding to East Harlem community members with whom Norman maintained personal and ecumenical relationships throughout his service in and beyond the Parish. Those materials are restricted until 2098.

- Series 2: Journals, 1937-2013 (13 boxes, 13 lin. ft.) [Level 2]

These journals comprise bound and bindered journals kept by Norman and Margaret. Boxes 11-13 contain Margaret Eddy’s journals ranging from 1963 to 1986. Note that this series is currently housed in 1’ archival banker boxes and may be heavier than standard archival (0.5’) document boxes. Note that this collection would benefit from additional processing and may required vetting prior to access.

- Series 3: Correspondence, 1900-2013 (6 boxes, 3 lin. ft.)

This series consists of personal and professional correspondence sent and received by Norman and Margaret, as well as memoranda and community-wide communications regarding East Harlem activities/actions.

- Series 4: Writings, 1930-2010 (17 boxes, 8.5 lin. ft.)

This series includes seventeen banker boxes of published and working drafts of writings, mostly by and edited by Norman. Notable projects include Current Events of the Week publications written by Pete Hart and Norman during their adolescence in New Britain Connecticut, East Harlem Credit Union project writings, autobiographical writings (related to the American Field Service, World War II, the early East Harlem years, and family memories, recollections of the Eddys’ visit with Martin Luther King in Montgomery, Alabama in 1956), biographical writings about Margaret transcribed or written by Norman, writings on narcotics, the “war on terror”, drafts of writings such as “Truth, Love and Freedom”, “A Connecticut Mystic”, and “Spirit-Visions: Fireflies in the Spirit”; the Metro North Citizens Committee, and many sermons given at various congregations/centers throughout the world.

- Series 5: Photographs, [1910-2013] (8 boxes, 8 lin. ft.)

These photographs range from early 20th century prints to color Polaroids taken or kept by Norman and Margaret Eddy. They include framed photographs, photographs in their original albums, as well as foldered and loose photographs that will require approval and further processing. As such, please note that the
