

China Knowledge and Library Sources: A Lecture Marking the 115th Anniversary of the Chinese Library at Columbia University

WANG YUGUANG

Professor, Department of Information Management, Peking University

Moderated by Chengzhi Wang

C.V. Starr East Asian Library & Weatherhead East Asian Institute,
Columbia University

Monday, November 27, 2017 | 12:00 PM - 1:30 PM

International Affairs Building, Room 918

The expansion of China knowledge in the U.S. in the first half of the 20th century resulted mainly from extraordinary efforts by both sinologists and bibliographers. Library historian and historiographer Prof. Wang Yuguang will share his research on how the early generation of Chinese American bibliographers in the U.S. such as Alfred Kaiming Chiu, Chao-ying Fang, and Tung-li Yuan made significant contribution by acquiring, classifying and cataloging, and researching Chinese source materials. Lecture in Chinese; PPT slides in Chinese & English.